

Martín Opertti

Department of Political Science, Duke University
140 Science Drive, Durham, NC 27708

Email: martin.opertti@duke.edu
Website: martinopertti.github.io

Education

Ph.D., Political Science, Duke University (expected 2028)

Fields: Political Behavior & Identities; Political Methodology

B.A., Sociology, Universidad Católica del Uruguay, 2018

Honors Thesis: The Political Conditioning of Economic Perceptions

Publications

Peer-Reviewed Articles

1. Opertti, M. & Johnston, C.D. (2025). Linking personality and policy: The moderating roles of cues and frames. Political Psychology.
2. Opertti, M. & Bogliaccini, J. (2025). A multidimensional analysis of political homophily among politically active Twitter users in Uruguay. Journal of Quantitative Description: Digital Media.
3. Álvarez, E., Bogliaccini, J., Enns, P.K., Opertti, M., & Queirolo, R. (2023). Policy mood and thermostatic representation in developing democracies: Taking the temperature in Uruguay. Journal of Elections, Public Opinion and Parties, 1–21.
4. Opertti, M. (2020). Stoic partisans: The political conditioning of economic perceptions in Uruguay. Revista Latinoamericana de Opinión Pública, 9(1), 67–88. Awarded the Uruguayan National Political Science Award for Best Paper (under 30).

Research Notes

1. Álvarez, E., Bogliaccini, J., Opertti, M., & Queirolo Velasco, R. (2022). Preserving and making public thirty years of public opinion. Revista Latinoamericana de Opinión Pública, Vol. 11, 129–147.

Books

1. Bogliaccini, J., Borba, N., Giambruno, C., Opertti, M., & Piñeiro, R. (2019). Twittarquía: The Politics of Social Media in Uruguay (in Spanish).

Book Chapters

1. Gómez Bonaglia, E., & Opertti, M. (2025). Estrategias digitales en campañas políticas: estudio del uso de redes sociales en las elecciones presidenciales 2024 en Uruguay (in Spanish). In Vairo y Luján (eds.), Elecciones y comportamiento electoral en una democracia de partidos.
2. Opertti, M., & Queirolo Velasco, R. (2021). Explaining vote choice: Uruguay's public opinion (in Spanish). In Moraes y Pérez (eds.), De la Estabilidad al Equilibrio Inestable: Elecciones y Comportamiento Electoral Uruguay 2019.
3. Bogliaccini, J., Borba, N., Giambruno, C., Opertti, M., & Piñeiro, R. (2021). Twitter and political polarization in Uruguay (in Spanish). In Moraes y Pérez (eds.), De la Estabilidad al Equilibrio Inestable.
4. Bogliaccini, J.A., Geymonat, J., & Opertti, M. (2021). Big business and bureaucratic-authoritarianism in Uruguay: A network-based story of policy permeation for self-preservation. In Berghoff, Basualdo, & Bucheli (eds.), Big Business and Authoritarian Regimes. Palgrave Macmillan.

Working Papers

1. Same facts, different meanings: Factual Information, Interpretation, and Attitude Change.
2. Values and political preferences in childhood. (with Christopher Johnston and Turgut Keskinürk, under review)
3. Expertise or popularity? Assessing the credibility of polling results on social media. (with Sunshine Hillygus)

Professional and Research Experience

Duke University

Graduate Research Assistant, Sunshine Hillygus 2024–2025

Graduate Research Assistant, Christopher Johnston 2023–2024

Verasight, Data Scientist 2021–2024

Methods and Data Access Unit, UdelaR, Research Assistant and Instructor 2020–2023

Social Science Department, Universidad Católica del Uruguay

Research Assistant, Rosario Queirolo and Juan Bogliaccini 2020–2021

Research Assistant, Santiago López Cariboni and Rosario Queirolo 2020

Research Assistant, Juan Bogliaccini 2018–2020

Teaching

Winter Methods School, UCU

Instructor, Introduction to Programming in R 2021–present

Teaching Assistant, Survey Methodology (Instructor: Peter Enns) 2022

School of Social Sciences, Universidad de la República

Instructor, Research Design and Measurement (co-taught with Fabricio Carneiro) 2023

Social Science Department, UCU

Instructor, Programming for Social Science Data Analysis 2022

Instructor, Mass Political Behavior 2020

Awards, Grants, and Fellowships

Fondo María Viñas, Agencia Nacional de Investigación e Innovación, Uruguay ($49,000) 2026
Co-investigator with Juan Bogliaccini, Rosario Queirolo, and Matías Tarillo

LACAR Fellowship, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Duke University ($10,731) 2026

Outstanding Second-Year Paper Award, Duke University 2026

Graduate Research Grant, Duke University ($5,000) 2025

Jerry B. and Callie Irene Stone Scholarships Research Support, Duke University ($5,000) 2024

Best Paper in Political Science Award (under 30), Uruguayan Association of Political Science 2021

Programa Germinadores, undergraduate thesis research, UCU ($1,500) 2017

Service

Coordinator, Behavior & Identity Workshop, Duke University 2025–present

Coordinator, Duke-UNC Latin American Politics Working Group 2023–2025

Conferences and Presentations

Midwest Political Science Association (MPSA)	2026
American Association for Public Opinion Research (AAPOR)	2026
Duke-UNC Political Behavior Workshop	2024
North Carolina Conference on Latin American Studies (NCCLAS)	2024
American Political Science Association (APSA)	2021
LatinR	2022
World Association for Public Opinion Research, Latin America (WAPOR Latinoamerica)	2018, 2020
The Public and Democracy in the Americas, LAPOP	2020
Uruguayan Political Science Association (AUCIP)	2019, 2021

Languages and Skills

Languages: Spanish (native), English (fluent)
Software: R, Stata, Qualtrics, LaTeX

References

Christopher Johnston

Professor of Political Science
Duke University
christopher.johnston@duke.edu

Juan A. Bogliaccini

Professor of Political Science
Universidad Católica del Uruguay
juan.bogliaccini@ucu.edu.uy

D. Sunshine Hillygus

Professor of Political Science
Duke University
hillygus@duke.edu

Rosario Queirolo

Associate Professor of Political Science
Universidad Católica del Uruguay
rosario.queirolo@ucu.edu.uy